

et ad quodlibet impetum ad appellandam ac non in sacris

Idem Roborant.

Comparantes per hoc officio... ad illud libent...
Comparantes per hoc officio... ad illud libent...
Comparantes per hoc officio... ad illud libent...
Comparantes per hoc officio... ad illud libent...
Comparantes per hoc officio... ad illud libent...

met et omni... in hac parte...
met et omni... in hac parte...
met et omni... in hac parte...
met et omni... in hac parte...
met et omni... in hac parte...

ante signu

228
1678. In die Martii 1678. Anno Domini Millesimo Sexcentesimo LXXVIII. In loco Praesidentis Curiae Praesidentis. Prohibet. Quod si quilibet

Achim in Castro Pramishiensi feria Secunda post Dominicam Quadragesimalem Remi-niscere proxima Anno Domini Millesimo Sex-centesimo Trigesimo Sexto. (scilicet die Martii 1678. pro Anno Domini Millesimo Sexcentesimo LXXVIII.)

1678. In die Martii 1678. Anno Domini Millesimo Sexcentesimo LXXVIII. In loco Praesidentis Curiae Praesidentis. Prohibet. Quod si quilibet

haski alteri tenetur.

(The following text is a dense Latin manuscript, likely a legal or ecclesiastical decree, written in a cursive hand. It discusses various matters, including the rights and duties of individuals, possibly related to the 'haski' mentioned in the main heading. The text is partially obscured by a dark horizontal bar across the top of the page.)

(The following text is a dense Latin manuscript, likely a legal or ecclesiastical decree, written in a cursive hand. It continues the discussion from the previous page, mentioning various names and legal terms. The text is partially obscured by a dark horizontal bar across the top of the page.)

Siedliscy & Badorsscy Roborant

(The following text is a dense Latin manuscript, likely a legal or ecclesiastical decree, written in a cursive hand. It appears to be a continuation or a separate entry related to the previous page, discussing specific matters and names.)