

[The main body of the document contains approximately 25 lines of handwritten text in a cursive script. The text is written on aged, slightly stained paper and is difficult to decipher due to the cursive style and some fading. It appears to be a formal letter or a record of a transaction. The first few lines likely contain the recipient's name and address, followed by the main message or terms. The text ends with a clear signature in the lower right quadrant.]

[Handwritten signature or stamp located in the lower right area of the page, below the main body of text. It consists of several lines of cursive script, which is a common way to sign off on documents of this type.]

[A large, decorative signature or stamp at the bottom of the page, featuring elaborate flourishes and a central monogram. This is likely the name of the sender or a formal seal used to authenticate the document.]

1. Post leges hinc
ad 2. p[er] hinc hinc hinc
ad 3. hinc hinc hinc

Ad

James Hamilton Esq -
no 2

Being a copy of the Bill of Exchange drawn by Messrs. Barclay, Bevan & Co. on Messrs. Hamilton and Co. in London, for the sum of one hundred pounds

Richard

223
—
223
418

James Hamilton Esq
no 2
Being a copy of the Bill of Exchange drawn by Messrs. Barclay, Bevan & Co. on Messrs. Hamilton and Co. in London, for the sum of one hundred pounds