

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or manuscript. The text is written in a dark ink on aged, slightly yellowed paper. It consists of approximately 25 lines of text, with some lines starting with large, decorative initial letters. The script is dense and difficult to decipher without specialized knowledge of the language and dialect. The text appears to be a formal or legal document, possibly a contract or a record of a transaction, given the use of terms like 'KATA' and 'MEX' which might refer to specific locations or legal concepts. The handwriting is consistent throughout, suggesting it was written by a single scribe. There are some faint markings and bleed-through from the reverse side of the page, but the main text is clearly legible.
